Maverick's players help plant trees at Reverchon Park

As part of the Dallas Mavericks Guard the Planet initiative, the Mavs launched Trees for Wins and committed to plant one tree in Reverchon Park for every Mavs win this season. For the Mavs 50 wins to date, 50 trees were recently planted by players Eduardo Najera and DeShawn Stevenson. The trees will be cared for by the Dallas Parks and Recreation Department and Arboriological Services, Tree Care Experts.

"We are proud to share the park as our backyard with the Mavs and we want to thank the Mavericks for this beautiful gesture of planting trees," said Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Children President J.C. Montgomery, Jr.

"The Mavs support for this project expresses their corporate leadership as well as their sound principles in being stewards of our urban forest," said Arboriological Services, Tree Care Experts President Steve Houser. Reverchon Park offers many leisure and recreational programs as well as baseball fields, basketball and tennis courts and an accessible children's playground.
